Again Today ATTACK IS MADE UPON SOCIAL CONDITION IN SALT LAKE

SALT LAKE, Dec. 19 .- "If Salt Lake is dry, Main street does not show it." vas one of many statements by Capt Robert E. Gramling of the United States public health service yesterday before a meeting of local civic, social and labor organization delegates, who met in the council chambers of the city and country building yesterday to form a civic and social betterment

"Conditions are bad here in Salt Lake," continued Dr. Gramling. "A man does not even have to go around to get evidence against bootleggers. He can see it on the street every day.' Referring to juvenile delinquency in the city, he stated that social diseases prevails to an alarming extent among juveniles brought before him.

"The most serious thing," he commented, "is that we have no place ex-cept the jail to put these boys and I shall continue to do so, how ever, when they are diseased, until such a howl is raised that state author ities will make some arrangements for their care. The juvenile court is cooperating with us.

To Proceed Against Hotels. Reference was made to the hotels of Salt Lake by Dr. Gramling, who stated that there was not a hotel in Salt Lake that could not be handled along cleaner social lines, and stated that preparations are under way to proceed against several hotel managements of the city in an endeavor to have them improve moral conditions. He declared that if the state health depart ment service could not remedy conditions, the government health depart ment would take action.

"We have authority to take these matters out of the hands of local authorities under the federal law, which does not permit disreputable houses within five miles of a military post." said the speaker.

Rippling Rhymes

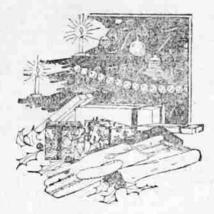

THE VICTIM.

All the world is shot to pieces, men are roaring, days and nights, for a lot of boons and bulwarks, and some fifty kinds of rights; capital is swatting lapor's roundly hitting back, and our mills are standing idle, and our trains have jumped the track. All the struggling, fighting forces seem to glory in he wreck, while the Ultimate Consumer gets the cleaver in the neck. Oh, the Ultimate Consumer in the scrap has little part; he'd be happy just to labor in the office or the mart, and to feed his wife and kiddies, and to buy the rags they need, and provid against the future when he's old and gone to seed; but alas, the bricks are flying, and the scrappers are on deck and the Ultimate Consumer gets the mate Consumer has a sad and wear, lot, for he's always bound to suffer whether others do or not; others do the frantic talking of their grievances and ills, while the Ultimate Consumer goes ahead and pays the bills; it's a time of sound and fury and the mad ness knows no check, and the Ulti mate Consumer gets the batchet in
